ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE IS HERE TO STAY

How will generative AI impact the labour market

Brussels, May 13th 2024

Given the resounding success of our first lunchtime conference on AI last autumn, TAO is now organising a second conference on the subject for colleagues around the Commission to stay updated on the impacts of AI in our jobs, for there will be impacts.

Aida Ponce Del Castillo from the European Trade Union Institute (Emerging Technologies and Foresight) will share her analysis of the recent studies done by consultancies and institutions on the impacts of generative AI on the labour market, looking at the possibilities and challenges of deskilling, reskilling, the investments needed, the risks for the European Commission and for its staff.

Stefan Gran, Senior Advisor at the European Trade Union Confederation (ETUC), will discuss what ETUC is doing at a pan-European level with unions to increase preparedness of workers for the uptake of AI ... and to limit its negative impacts.

AI is changing our working lives. We're seeing it more and more. Join us to stay in the know, be prepared ... and even stay STOP!

Learn more in our lunchtime conference with leading movers and shakers.
